

Tomorrow I'm Gone

Lyrics & music: Clarence B Thunborg

I'm sitting here lonely, so far away from home Thinking about you,
when you're heart turn to stone You asked me to come with you, then you leave me here all alone Trying to recall when we both went so wrong

Baby don't you worry,
I'm leaving tomorrow
Baby don't you worry,
tomorrow I'm gone

We both had our share of heartache and suffering Sweet nights of passion washed all our pain away You made me feel,
how it is to be loved again But just for a moment until night turned to day

Baby don't you worry,
I'm leaving tomorrow
Baby don't you worry,
tomorrow I'm gone
If you leave me
for fortune and fame I'll never want to see you again If you leave me for fortune and fame
You won't deserve me but the pain remain the same

Maybe after all we're just wasting our time Trying to is the pain inside, no regrets, with an open mind So let us empty
this last bottle wine When tomorrow comes I'll neglect you where ever mine

Baby don't you worry...
If you leave me...
